CAUCUSES OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

Union Party and Democrats Were in the Field With Tickets For Town Election—Coal Was High in Fall of '63—Three Norwich Octogenarians Die the Same Day.

Two caucuses before the town election were held in this city this week, fifty years ago, and the same day. The Union party each placing a full ticket in the field. For selection at the head of the Union ticket were Newell C. Brackentridge, Samuel B. Case, and Charles Crawley, and against the democrats nominated for selectmen Henry A. Tracy, C. Thompson and William W. Peckham.

The following are extracts from the Bulletin of 1863:
Stole Fruit at Windham Fair.
Sept. 23, 1863.—The person or persons guilty of stealing the fruit on exhibition at the Windham county fair last week evinced the meanest disposition we have heard of lately. A man mean enough for this would steal his mother's clothes line and pawn it for emeralds and goods.

Fair Grounds' Track in Shape.
The track at the New London county fair grounds is in excellent condition and the sheds for the accommodation of cattle, etc., have all been fitted up in good style. Entries in all the departments, we are informed by the secretary, are equal, and in many cases superior, to those of former years.

Found Drowned.
Joseph P. Chapman, son of Enoch C. Chapman, who had been missing since Sunday evening, was found drowned near the plant mill. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of "accidental drowning while laboring under a temporary aberration of mind."

Democratic Caucus.
The democratic caucus Saturday evening selected the following ticket: Selectmen—Henry B. Tracy, C. C. Thompson, Wm. W. Peckham; assessors—John Dunham, Thomas Robinson, C. P. Wiles; board of relief—Appleton, Meech, H. Hobart; Othello Gager; registrar—John W. Murphy, collector of town tax—Enoch C. Chapman.

Sept. 29, 1863.—Frederick G. Hyde, a student at the New London Free Academy, has received an appointment as a midshipman at the naval academy, Newport, R. I.

The Norwich Light Infantry company take their departure for Hartford this morning to attend the three days' encampment.

Coal Is High.
The best qualities of anthracite coal are selling at Baltimore at $8 a ton for family size, and $7 for nut. By wholesale, the best anthracite can be bought for $6.85. Cumberland coal is $5.50 a ton by the cargo and $5.50 a ton at retail. Lump coal sells at $7. There is an immense stock of anthracite coal in the city. But why, with an increased supply of some twenty-two per cent, coal is higher than last year is not clear.

Sept. 30, 1863.—Mrs. Kelt, a temporary sojourner at the jail, made her escape on Monday evening. She needed put herself out to trust or harbor her.

DEATH BED CONFESSION OF MONTVILLE MAN.
Clergyman Says It Exonerated Charles Gilbert of Murder Charge.

The Rev. George A. Lester, a retired Baptist clergyman residing in Hartford, died Thursday evening at the age of 72. He was the father of Charles Gilbert, the convict who died at the state prison Tuesday, after serving for life for the murder of Henry C. Dean, a New Britain man, in the sixties, told him (Mr. Lester) that the father of the two, John Gilbert, made a death bed confession in which he admitted the fact that he had killed the man who had been shot by the police.

Mr. Lester says he officiated at the funeral of the elder Gilbert in Montville some years after the murder and told him of the fact of the father's confession at that time and asked him to intercede for a pardon for Charles. Mr. Lester asserts that he brought the matter to the attention of Henry Strickland, then representative from Montville and a member of the board of pardons, but that he refused to do so. The alleged confession and because of Charles' bad record nothing was done.

SILAS DEAN'S BIRTHPLACE
Was in Leydard, Home of Former Judge Fanning—Congress Sent Dean to France With Franklin and Lee.

The Bulletin's Leydard correspondent writes:
Edin Reynolds of Providence and this town offered a prize of $10 and a bronze medal to the pupils in the Leydard schools who could write the best essay on the subject of the American Independence. Nine of the Leydard pupils completed. Secretary S. E. Holdridge had principal and Mrs. Nellie R. Strickland, of the Leydard school, judge and make the awards. Miss Carrie Finnegan won the prize at the school on Sunday school Sunday Mr. Reynolds presented the same to Miss Finnegan.

Mr. Reynolds also announced that he had paid a visit to the cemetery in Groton for $200 where seven Revolutionary soldiers are buried who helped to defend Fort Griswold and had given a deed of the same to the daughters of the American Revolution.

Rev. Mr. White announced that he had discovered several Revolutionary soldiers are buried and also announced the birthplace of Silas Dean, whom congress sent with Benjamin Franklin and Arthur Lee to France to get aid to help the American colonies.

Silas Dean was born in the house where former Judge George Fanning used to live. It would be a worthy object for the B. A. R. to place a suitable stone or tablet to commemorate the birthplace of Silas Dean. On the same farm is an old Indian burying ground where 300 and 400 graves. Many of the graves have headstones, but it is not fenced in.

STATE SHOULD NOT PAY PREMIUMS ON BONDS.
Attorney General John H. Light on Question Affecting County Officials.

Attorney General John H. Light gave an opinion on Friday to the comptroller on the question whether the state should pay the premiums on bonds of county officials and others not handling state money.

The attorney general says the state should not pay the premium on the bonds.

The state heretofore has paid the premiums on bonds of judges, including sheriffs and county commissioners, and making in all about $4000. The premium on each bond is $25 per annum.

The opinion of the attorney general will mean a saving to the state of $1400 a year.

Hunters' Licenses.
Hunters' licenses issued on Friday at the town clerk's office included the names of Joseph A. Brusse, William R. LaRoche, John Irish, Salmour De Rube and C. B. Grant.
